

SCORPIO

Reputed to be the “most powerful” sign of the zodiac, Scorpions lead fate filled lives and have intense and dramatic personal relationships. Even as children Scorpions are often found to be wise beyond their years. Many astrologers call this the sign of the “oldest souls”. Old and wise beyond the average, Scorpions often know all the answers, except sometimes; they too often have difficulty finding what they need to develop their own happiness.

Passion, desire and power go hand in hand for Scorpions. Their biggest challenge and test in life is choosing between the power of love and the love of power. Coming to grips with their extraordinary emotional depths and sensitivity isn't easy for those around them. They are different from all other zodiac signs and this difference has them walking, working and loving to a different beat. Others can often live with a Scorpio partner for years, but not really know them. Much to do with a Scorpio remains ever secret. Their eyes often blaze with feelings that words never express, and beware on the days or nights they hide their feelings behind dark glasses, there is likely to be a storm of some kind brewing. When you deal with a Scorpio you have to always deal with them on a psychic intuitive level. They often wear a mask. Too often they say “no” when they really mean “yes”. They have contrary natures. Once they find true love they can be the most faithful dedicated of all partners but fall out badly with a Scorpio and you are likely to find they will never forget or forgive.

Most Scorpions are winners. The main thing they have to worry about is their attitudes, which make up their mind powers and can either make or break them. When they are negative about something or someone, or critical of themselves, they can tend to get in their own way.

High astrological affinity:

Scorpio-Cancer, Scorpio-Virgo, Scorpio-Capricorn, Scorpio-Pisces

Good compatibility:

Scorpio-Taurus, Scorpio-Scorpio

Fairly compatible:

Scorpio-Aries, Scorpio-Gemini, Scorpio-Libra, Scorpio-Sagittarius

Low compatibility:

Scorpio-Leo, Scorpio-Aquarius

Scorpio and Cancer. Water and Water. Sometimes it works so well you can hardly believe it. But sometimes, nothing good happens. Theoretically, stars say yes, yes, and yes again. Practically, not all Crabs are alike. As for the Scorpios...

Cancer is, indeed, in most cases, the ideal partner for Scorpio. Cancer's feelings are strong, just like yours, his/her need to be understood equals yours, and the spiritual warmth (s)he has to offer can make you think you've reached Heaven. On the other hand, your strong and confident personality offers this unstable and insecure native precisely the safety and support Cancer needs to be him/herself. A Cancer can be extremely affective, devoted and generous when (s)he feels safe, when his/her home is protected and (s)he is surrounded by your love and passion.

Moreover, not all Scorpios are the same. Besides, you aren't the most comfortable native in the world, you are demanding and rather intolerant. Scorpio's natural tendency is to be taciturn and introvert, which gives him/her that wonderful mysterious aura, but makes communication more difficult. Cancer is also introvert.

The Crab's famous shell is very hard to remove, especially since (s)he doesn't let his/her discontents or frustrations out, because (s)he wants to see how much you insist on it. This is a measure for the love you have for him/her: the more you love him/her - (s)he says -, the more you'll insist on finding out what happened.

And Cancer is also a very capricious native so (s)he'll often drive you to despair (Cancer is governed by the Moon, the only heavenly body changing its position to the Earth on a daily basis, so Cancer's moods actually change from one hour and from one day to another).

Besides that, Cancer's jealousy almost equals yours, but, unlike you, (s)he doesn't scream or stamp to his/her foot: (s)he just looks sour and expects you to understand. And if you don't understand right away, you're in trouble: your Crab ll be miffed because you don't understand him/her ("couldn't you have realized without me telling you?"). And so on and so forth.

Sexually? Intense passions characterize you both, so it won't be just sex, it will be a unique experience, whether you understand each other from other points of view or not. Far from being an ephemeral experience, the physical love between Scorpio and Cancer will certainly be a lifetime memory.

So, is it worth it? As any combination between a Scorpio and a Water sign: 99% yes. As for the remaining 1%, learn the phases of the Moon by heart, so that you know in advance when your Cancer loses his/her temper. I mean it. Don't say I didn't warn you!

Scorpio and Virgo. Water and Earth. A beautiful relationship, with good chances to succeed, but not exactly easy.

Scorpio charms Virgo, incites him/her and makes him/her curious: you are the one stirring this Mercury sign, revealing secret theories to him/her. And with Virgo's well-known passion for intellectual activities, the attraction will not only be immediate, but also lasting.

Above all, remember that Virgo is NOT mean or malicious. This is just the way (s)he is. A relationship with Virgo will be full of surprises for you. Both pleasant, because Virgo is able to understand you and offer you the stability and safety you need, and unpleasant, because Virgo is not capable of reaching the emotional, passionate depths where you live your love life. And once again, pay attention to jealousy outbursts, both of you, because it's a crucial aspect of your relationship although it may not seem like that at the beginning. Somebody has to give in, could you do it, this time?

If you didn't meet your Virgo in some educational institution, it means you got lucky. Because this sunsign, governed by Mercury (the planet of reason, of perception) is generally inclined towards study. The stranger and the more difficult an issue is, or the more meticulousity it requires, the more chances you have to find a Virgo in the area.

You'll recognize a Virgo at a distance: (s)he is stranger and (s)he leaps to the eyes. But the fact that Virgo is very pleasant attracts you to him/her. Just like that. That's what you find attractive, although you should not forget that beneath Virgo's cheerful and apparently extrovert nature, there is often a native full of complexes and reserve, that holds him/her back from keeping up with your expansive character: Virgo doesn't really understand what the big deal is and why you bother so much.

You are both committed to home and family and you are comfortable in the same places (at home or around people that you know very well), you are both careful as regards money, so there shouldn't be any problems in the day-to-day life. In fact, there are so many things you have in common that the small differences should be regarded as the flavour of the relationship rather than as serious obstacles.

Sexually, you are good for each other. Water and Earth combine very well in bed, because they interpenetrate. Virgo is rather reserved and (s)he needs time to be at ease, but, with a little patience, you'll get over this incipient phase of your relationship. Anyway, it is not the kind of relationship to start with sex rounds on the kitchen table. They come later with a Virgo, maybe even several months after the first date.

So, is it worth it? Attention to jealousy. As for the rest, good luck!

Scorpio and Capricorn: Water and Earth. A lasting relationship, fulfilled and passionate.

Scorpio's defects, jealousy and possessiveness, are seen as qualities by Capricorn, who is often insecure and introvert. To him, these defects show love and make him/her feel safe (a highly appreciated feeling by Earth signs). On the other hand, Capricorn's realism will make you feel confident, too: the Earth is the only one that can stop Water (emotions), and the latter, in its turn, penetrates the Earth as often as possible.

Capricorn is well-known as a hardworking native, interested in his/her career and desirous of climbing the social ladder. Your goals meet at this point because you are also ambitious and feel the need to dedicate yourself to an activity.

All in all, you will be the support Capricorn needs; besides that, with your patience and understanding, you will help your Capricorn grasp the complicated ways of Scorpio's soul. Indeed, Capricorn is a native that takes a lot of time before starting a serious relationship, but once (s)he is emotionally involved, (s)he is very faithful.

The fact that Capricorn "has his/her feet firmly set on the ground" will offer you safety as regards the future. Capricorn is also a stable native, that doesn't go the wrong way: if your Capricorn is late, (s)he is surely at the office. Maybe even too often. Your special charm can help him/her unwind a little because Capricorn tends to be an workaholic.

One of the qualities that make Capricorn compatible with you is his/her strange sense of humor, as (s)he is often self ironical. Capricorn is the sign governed by Saturn (the planet that teaches us life lessons), so (s)he is by definition a more serious native. But Capricorn understands humor better than you might imagine, and (s)he will have such replies for your sarcastic remarks that you will be speechless.

You are both good at negotiating, so you'll communicate very well on the daily issues, and your intuition (given by the Water component) will help your Capricorn very much precisely where (s)he needs most: with his/her career.

Therefore, the Scorpio-Capricorn relation is a happy combination and with a little tact you can get anything you want from it, including the leader's role. Don't forget that, just like any horned animal, Capricorn is stubborn, so don't push it when (s)he has an issue. Anyway, your talent in negotiating will always save you, so use your patience. With Capricorn, you'll need all your resources, at least until you get under the social mask (s)he is putting on.

Scorpio and Pisces. Water and Water? I guess you can hear the slogan “the perfect partner”. Especially on the Internet, almost all horoscopes say it, and, although it is very possible that you have a wonderful relationship, it may very well be mediocre to you.

Don't misunderstand me: from the point of view of a Pisces that has found a Scorpio to stand him/her, the relationship is excellent. But don't believe all those texts that tell you only a Cancer or a Pisces can make you happy. Indeed, the combinations between Water signs are most appreciated, but reality is often overlooked. That's why I'll highlight both strong points (which are plenty) and some warnings, useful especially to Scorpio.

Not all natives of a sun sign share all its general characteristics. Some Scorpios are more jealous, more possessive, more introvert, but others are not like this. Similarly, some Pisces are more altruistic, generous, with no desire to dominate, but obviously, they are not all the same. The classical combination between two Water signs is meant to last, theoretically at least. And most often, it really does.

What brings you two together? Stars say everything does. The affective affinities that rise between Scorpio and Pisces are wonderful, indeed: Pisces doesn't want to dominate and (s)he'll gladly allow you to be in charge. Pisces understands you perfectly, even when you are silent, because (s)he lives in the same sentimental area, in the same ocean of complicated and deep feelings.

Pisces can make you feel fulfilled by supporting you with gentleness in everything you do. Besides that, (s)he is very undecided (Pisces doesn't like making decisions) and (s)he'll be glad because (s)he'll have someone to depend on.

Pisces' imagination lights up Scorpio's creativity that carries out the former's fanciful ideas. Pisces understands love and passion the same way you do, so you'll share happiness with him/her. Meaningful, existential discussions incite Pisces as much as they incite you and communication between you two is excellent.

If you're an adventurous Scorpio, you'll probably find Pisces perfect, but a little too immobile. If you dream of a peaceful home, happy family, joined lives and daily rituals arisen from the routine, then yes, Pisces is the ideal combination for you.

Sexually? If I need to say it once again, Water signs are the most skillful when it comes to expressing passions, and deep emotions, as well as imagination, are a common thing in this relationship. From the most delicate gestures to the most pervert acts (that characterize both signs), Pisces can understand and support you, even revealing new dimensions of passion to you.

Therefore, is it worth it? 99% yes. But, for the sake of that 1%, first of all ask yourself what it is that you expect of a partner.

Scorpio and Taurus, Water and Earth? An interesting relationship, attraction at first sight. The chances of a long-term relationship are 50%-50% because you are opposite signs in the zodiac.

Taurus is an Earth native, which means (s)he can offer you a certain degree of emotional stability. Astrology suggests that the combination between Water and Earth is very good (the two elements result in mud, which means fertility from the symbolical point of view). Very devoted and loyal, Taurus won't give you reasons to be jealous.

Neither of you is the kind to gather life's roses, like Air signs for example, so you'll probably have a good time in private rather than in crowded places. Taurus likes having a comfortable home, where (s)he generally spends much time, and Scorpio is "idle" enough as to prefer unwinding at home, in front of the TV, and not by going to restaurants, clubs and so on.

The realistic and calm approaches of Taurus, who is by far the wisest of you two, generally make you see things from a different perspective and relax: anytime Taurus is in front of an angry or just choleric Scorpio, Taurus will shrug his/her shoulders and wait for the storm to be over, and only afterwards (s)he will express his/her opinion.

You are both fixed signs so you are determined and perseverant. But when you are hasty, Taurus takes things slowly, and this could turn out to be a big advantage of the relationship: Taurus has the power to offer you both stability and understanding.

Taurus isn't very talkative either and (s)he can often feel lost in front of Scorpio's meaningful silence. You are introvert by nature, but remember that Taurus really wants to understand the mysteries of the waters in which you live: talk to him/her, and you'll see many problems can be solved this way.

Materialistic by nature, Taurus is economical and does not waste money. And you know how to make it, so you'll probably be just fine from this point of view. You both love the comfort of the home, so probably many expenses will be oriented in that direction.

Taurus is a patient person, so (s)he'll listen to anything you tell him/her and (s)he'll try to understand everything that goes on in your soul. Even if Taurus sometimes doesn't have the same preferences as you do, the fact that you communicate so well makes you find common ground.

The only problem that you could have appears if you start arguing, because you are both stubborn signs: you have a very strong will, and Taurus is really headstrong so neither of you will give up very easily. You both want to be in charge, and this might lead to collision, because Taurus won't change. In fact, as an Earth sign, Taurus finds it hard to make any kind of change, even if it's something very simple: the immobility characteristic of the element lends him/her a sort of displeasure against changes.

Scorpio and Scorpio? Water and Water... It could work. But you are both governed by Mars, i.e. the God of war. So it will sometimes be Heaven on Earth (in bed) and sometimes Hell (when you don't agree).

If you were attracted to his/her mysterious aura, the intense vibration of his/her feelings, the strange impression (s)he leaves on people, that's the way others see you, too. If (s)he doesn't talk too much, you try to do it, because (s)he is in fact as introvert and taciturn as you are. But beneath this social mask, there is a volcano, as you probably know from your own experience.

Now, between you and me, you are both wire-pullers every now and then. Everybody says it, although not everybody understands Scorpions' reasons. Each of you will try to monitor the other one and hide as many details as possible about him/herself. Paying attention to the time the other one comes back will be in the pipeline in the first period you spend together.

Of course, not all Scorpions are the same, but some essential things are true for all natives. Like navigating through oceans of contradictory feelings - you are the only one who can do it -, or possessiveness, or permanently living between "here" and "there".

Your Scorpio has the same qualities: sensual, deep feelings, profound, intuitive regarding the other's emotions. (S)He is possessive, just like you, so it is partly a good thing because you'll create a world of your own, in which you'll feel safe, appreciated and loved. As Water signs, you often communicate without words. At the affective level of the relationship, everything is all right.

In day-to-day life, don't forget that you live with someone as stubborn as you are. That's your main problem: Scorpio does not give up. Whether (s)he is right or not, Scorpio will hack an argument to death. Out of principles, of pride, you know why, but you don't give up. And if it happens not to agree on something... it will be a very long discussion.

Fighting for supremacy is the only problem this relationship has, and the same passion that can unleash nuclear energies in bed, can destroy everything when it comes to "we'll do it your way or my way". Scorpio is a fixed sign, meaning determined and stubborn. The old story about the two hard rocks.

They often say Scorpio is always in search of the great love. That's because you want emotional fulfillment along with the physical one. And let's be honest: only a Scorpio can understand it fully. That means the person next to you.

Therefore, is it worth it? It depends on whether you want to have a life partner or be right all the time.

Scorpio and Aries: Water and Fire? It's difficult to reach a compromise, but once you both have figured it out, the relationship stands a good chance to last.

It is worth mentioning that you are excellent business partners, even if you sometimes collide, emotionally speaking. Aries is the initiator, the one inspiring great deeds, coming up with bright ideas. It is the practice that gives Aries a hard time. And this is where Scorpio comes along, bringing sustainability.

Aries is the sign that governs the brain so (s)he is very open-minded to new ideas and (s)he knows how to show credit to the others, so (s)he'll listen to your ideas and suggestions very carefully, trying to do something with them.

The physical attraction between you two is very strong at the beginning: it was probably love at first sight. The passion will be big on the first days: generally, Water and Fire attract each other, being complementary. Each of them has what the other lacks, each of them completes the other.

The problems appear when you start talking about a long-term relationship because Water tends to put out the Fire (to bore or annoy him/her), and Fire tends, by its own energy, to consume the energy around, namely to evaporate Water (to exhaust you physically and spiritually).

You, dear Scorpio, are a Water sign, very emotional, passionate, and always preoccupied with existential issues ("but why do you love me?"), while Aries doesn't spend too much time thinking about such details ("isn't the fact that I love you enough?"), for Aries sees the big picture. The sentimental depths you like navigating in scares Aries, because (s)he is a Fire sign, and too much Water (feelings, emotions) put it out, consumes his/her energy.

On the other hand, Scorpio is not crazy about parties, crowded places and formal meetings. But Aries is the one shining in this kind of places: (s)he is the centre of attention and everyone listens to him/her. Naturally, Aries enjoys it (your Aries is as proud as you are), so (s)he doesn't avoid parties, on the contrary, (s)he looks for them, while you would like him/her at home more, paying more attention to you. And neither does (s)he have enough patience to cuddle you and beg you to come with him/her. This will hurt your ego (which is rather high - maybe you should lower your expectations sometimes).

Scorpio and Gemini. Water and Air? It's beautiful for a second, as long as the champagne brims over the glasses. Then, the Air gets out of the Water and the combination destabilizes. A relationship that lasts no more than a bottle of sparkling water left without a cap.

Let's assume you are not with a Gemini because (s)he looks good, but because there is something else you like about this native. Because in your relationship the physical attraction is not based on anything sensible. Your Gemini has a sharp, quick mind, and that's what probably fascinated you. The problem, as you'll see, is that Gemini can't really shut up or stop.

Gemini is neither a family person, you will often find him/her where there are a lot of people or at friends' or relatives' places (well, Air has to move in order to feel it exists). And these are the places you don't like going to, or at least not as often as Gemini goes.

The eternal problem between a Water sign and an Air sign is that the former naturally tends towards immobility and the latter towards movement. It's true, both of them "circulate", but on different purposes. While you focus on an idea and go all the way, Gemini... does much the same thing, but a little differently. That means Gemini explores all the possibilities of that idea quickly, goes to the library or to the bookshop, (s)he enters another bookshop on his/her way and (s)he comes up with another idea. In conclusion, while you stay in the same place, Gemini goes from one idea to another, from one relationship to another. And this is a problem.

But of course, if you really want to, the relationship with a Gemini is not impossible, but you ought to change too much of your personality to keep up with your Gemini - and you don't even feel (s)he really understands you or that (s)he is truly involved... Gemini seems to be absent minded all the time, somewhere else, even if (s)he is physically near you.

In the beginning, your mysterious look will attract a curious native such as Gemini. Your wild passion in bed will intrigue him/her. But Gemini is so unstable that a Scorpio who demands complete devotion, will simply not take it for long. Gemini's thirst for independence is too big, and your need to "control" him/her is suffocating.

Sexually, a Scorpio shouldn't have any problem with anybody. Your sign governs the genitals and is famous for the intensity, skill and gentleness shown in bed. Gemini is bright, funny, imaginative and amazing. Once. Twice. And afterwards (s)he gets tired of the routine that you like and you start feeling that your Gemini is not responding with the same intensity.

So, is a Scorpio-Gemini relation worth it? You'd better not try it. A flirt can be wonderful, on the condition that it doesn't last more than a week.

Scorpio and Libra: Water and Air. A sparkling, meaning a good combination, but also blustering, meaning dangerous. The governors of the two sun signs are Mars and Venus: war and love.

The mysterious Scorpio, with his/her “you’ll never guess what I keep inside myself” attitude, conquers anybody easily. And Libra likes meeting new and interesting people, establishing connections all the time. But you, dear Scorpio, take everything too seriously, and Libra is too inclined towards flirting to be able to get used to such a sensitive and possessive partner like Scorpio. However, it can be a beautiful relationship if you make some efforts (you have to work on the possessiveness that characterizes any Scorpio).

Let’s start with the beginning: you are a Water sign and that means you experience strong, intense, mysterious emotions. Libra is an Air sign, consequently analytical and rational. Libra would never allow his/her emotions to get out of control: emotions need to be held tightly and calmed down. Therefore, affective communication might have some shortcomings.

On the other hand, you are a fixed sign, that is determined, organized, looking for stability in life. Libra is a cardinal sign, that is an ambitious, resourceful person that takes many risks. Surely, a Libra will always look for equilibrium between his/her two scales. But (s)he can rarely keep it: (s)he generally finds it, enjoys it, and then (s)he loses it again. And this might be one of your problems: you want your Libra at home, good and quiet, while (s)he can’t imagine life without wandering (friends, relatives, anyone, as long as (s)he doesn’t stay at home).

But, of course, all this doesn’t mean that your relationship is doomed and you have to let your Libra go. After all, Libra just wants to get married or take part in a long partnership. That’s because Libra is associated with the Seventh House of marriage (as in contract, agreement, association). But Libra takes love much more lightly than you do.

On the other hand, once it’s official that you are together, your Libra will feel safe, equilibrated and with his/her scales in order. So (s)he’ll start going to friends, relatives or just out again. And since you, dear Scorpio, are not keen on visits, new people or crowded places, it will often bother you.

It’s difficult to make a Libra make up his/her mind, say yes or no. A simple experiment: ask him/her a closed question (one that you can only answer by yes or no) and count the minutes or the days that pass before (s)he gives you an answer.

Therefore? Honestly, a Scorpio-Libra relation doesn’t really work. If you insist on it, you can try this kind of new love, but you won’t be satisfied. And eventually, a beautiful relationship must allow you to be yourself. Think about it. (But don’t give up a flirt with a Libra: it’s worth it!)

Scorpio and Sagittarius: Water and Fire. If you are a good, decent Scorpio, forget it. If you like adventure, living on the edge, you've got a chance.

Ok, stars say that it is generally no, but maybe it is yes. So, what could it be like? Let's figure it out first: as a Water sign, you need a partner that understands your emotions and answers back with the same intensity. That's what Sagittarius does. Further, as a Water sign, you need to be loved demonstratively, permanently and each moment. Well, this is the point Sagittarius stumbles at, no matter what a good hunter (s)he is. Because Sagittarius knows how to love and be devoted, as only Fire signs know.

Sagittarius is loyal so (s)he cannot stir your jealousy. But... (s)he doesn't love demonstratively, as you wish. Meaning that (s)he doesn't say "I love you / you and only you / you and I until the end" every day, (s)he doesn't always show it.

Although Sagittarius lives with the same intensity you do, (s)he doesn't analyze these feelings as deeply as you do it, and neither does (s)he ask questions about his/her own person. Yes, Sagittarius is the sign of philosophers (and of single people par excellence), but (s)he analyses what's around him/her, not inside him/her.

The second problem with a Sagittarius is that (s)he uses the expression "always, until the end" very often, but that usually means until next week. Sagittarius doesn't get involved for long term too easily. Sagittarius needs much independence and any possessive Scorpio is terrified at this gloomy word which means that person will not belong to him/her.

You two love as strongly and intensely, but your definitions are very different: "you love me, therefore you're mine", you say; "you love me, therefore you let me find my way", says Sagittarius. A dictionary would be very useful, and right from the first evening.

Sagittarius likes playing games, (s)he is imaginative and innovator, like any Fire sign, and (s)he fascinates you with everything (s)he comes up. That's the good part. The bad part is that Sagittarius remains "playful" even when (s)he has to behave like a responsible adult.

Briefly, you take things too seriously, Sagittarius doesn't. It's a relationship in which you'll have the control, but you'll need much tact to keep your Sagittarius in one place.

Speaking of tact: Sagittarius is as open and talkative as you are taciturn and introvert. Sagittarius likes walking, not staying at home. Around Sagittarius, buying bread or using the vacuum cleaner becomes an adventure. If you want to use a trick, keep in mind that Sagittarius is very impressionable. Hopelessly.

Don't get upset when your Sagittarius is roughly sincere. To you, kindness, feelings and generosity come first, but unlike you, honesty is the most important thing to Sagittarius (even if it hurts). Whenever (s)he tells a truth that you are not comfortable with, remember that (s)he thinks it's for your own good. And if you ask your Sagittarius why (s)he is being so tough on you, (s)he'll simply say: "you wanted the truth, didn't you?"

Scorpio and Leo: Water and Fire. Drama, intensity, a relationship of extremes. It can last, but it can also blow in your face, so be very careful.

In fact, there are as many pro arguments as there are against. The initial attraction, just like between any complementary elements, is very big. Especially the physical one. The intensity of feelings and the sexual relationship are two advantages that could almost help you have a happy relationship.

But both you and Leo strongly need to dominate, to control, to be the boss. And in this competition, Leo is at an advantage because (s)he roars louder (this is not a metaphor, Leo is, indeed, a master of speech, and when (s)he gets upset, (s)he becomes frightening). If you want an example, take a look at the front page of the newspapers issued several years ago and try to observe the relationship between the Great Lion Bill and the Scorpio Hillary Clinton. Neither of them gives up, neither of them yields an inch.

Leo has a great quality which often becomes his/her biggest defect: his/her EGO, which gives Leo a kind, generous heart, but also makes him/her possessive, dominant, cruel, theatrical (even VERY theatrical; “scenes” and slammed doors, final declarations are common things with a Leo).

Although it can work very well (you both like this kind of dramatic life, lived intensely, exhausting to most people), your relationship will stumble very often at this point, of domination. Besides that, Leo needs to know (s)he is always admired, worshiped, loved (honestly, not otherwise), while you are way too proud to offer him/her this. After all, who worships YOU? On account of the same need for adoration, Leo is not very faithful. And since you are one of the most jealous sun signs, it doesn't look too good.

There is also the problem of domination. As anyone knows, Scorpio is the master of manipulation and schemes, tricks and pull stringing so you shouldn't have problems, on the condition that you accept this simple advice: Leo has to have the illusion that (s)he is the boss. Officially, Leo is the one in charge of everything. We know better, and Leo is not difficult to manipulate, unless you want the official power. Accept the role of the king or queen that rules from the shadow, and everything will be all right (well, there will still be scenes, but you like them).

In conclusion, is it worth it? The warning is very clear: you both have VERY strong personalities, which will often collide. But, on the other hand, Leo can offer you everything you have been dreaming of.

Scorpio and Aquarius, Water and Air? A difficult relationship, you'd better not try it.

You are Water while Aquarius is an Air sign. And, no matter how understanding Aquarius seems to be, for him/her a sentimental relationship is not by far a volcano of passion, as it is for you. In fact, Aquarius takes any relationship as a form of enlarging his/her knowledge, of widening his/her horizon, for (s)he's a very detached and cerebral sign. And this is precisely the thing that will leave you discontent, because any time Aquarius goes out or to friends, you'll be the one staying at home, and (s)he won't even notice that you are upset when (s)he gets back.

Aquarius' need for independence is so big that (s)he won't even understand your possessiveness in love, let alone accept it and obey it (a verb that (s)he really hates). Aquarius has too many errands to run to stay at home and you like knowing where your partner is.

Aquarius is well-known for the cold objectivity with which (s)he approaches any problem, and when you try telling him/her that you are bothered by his/her often going-outs, your Aquarius will knit his/her brows: (s)he must have misunderstood, what do you mean by "they bother you"? What's the problem, haven't you got a life of your own to live? You don't want to be with your partner 24 hours a day, do you? That's why Air signs and Water don't match very well.

You feel great in a comfortable home, where daily routine brings along fulfillment. But Aquarius is the sign of change, of unconventionality, and (s)he feels (s)he is in a cage if (s)he spends too much time at home. Aquarius needs to wander, to discover the world, to find out what else has been going on, to meet all his/her friends.

As you are both fixed signs, it's very difficult for anyone to make you change or to convince you, so even the smallest argument can blow out of proportion and become a nightmare: neither of you gives up! And most fights will start from Aquarius' independence (too much for your taste), from the fact that (s)he seems to enjoy getting on your nerves. In his/her turn, Aquarius will be surprised at your complicated mind, that relies on intuition more than on facts and data, and (s)he'll even reproach you with it, because Aquarius is not the kind to hold back when (s)he has something to say.

Being a dominating sign, Aquarius likes having the control in an emotional relationship too, and you don't agree on it. This will lead to a kind of life-and-death war in which you'll try to convince your Aquarius of your feelings, and (s)he'll try to make you think more rationally, more objectively.

So? A relationship that can't even begin, as stars would put it. It will last as long as the physical passion in the beginning will last, not a second more. But when it comes to a long-term arrangement, you'll both regret getting involved in such a strange thing. You'd better stay at home.

Quotes from Famous Scorpios:

“I do not seek. I find.”

-- Pablo Picasso (Sun in Scorpio)

“I am always doing that which I can not do, in order that I may learn how to do it.”

-- Pablo Picasso (Sun in Scorpio)

“You know what charm is: a way of getting the answer yes without having asked any clear question.”

-- Albert Camus (Sun in Scorpio)

“There is no fate that cannot be surmounted by scorn.”

-- Albert Camus (Sun in Scorpio)

Some Famous people with Sun in Scorpio: Ed Asner (Sun, Mercury, Venus, Mars, and Ascendant in Scorpio), Lauren Bessette (Sun, Moon, and Mercury in Scorpio), Bjork (Sun and Moon in Scorpio), Lisa Bonet (Sun and Mercury in Scorpio), John Cleese (Sun, Mercury, and Venus in Scorpio), Jamie Lee Curtis, Danny DeVito, Leonardo DiCaprio (Sun, Venus, and Mars in Scorpio), Richard Dreyfuss (Sun, Mercury, and Venus in Scorpio), Sally Field, Bill Gates, Calista Flockhart, Jodie Foster (Sun, Mercury, and Venus in Scorpio), Whoopi Goldberg (Sun, Moon, and Mercury in Scorpio), John Gotti (organized crime boss - Sun and Mercury in Scorpio), Harry Hamlin (Sun, Moon, and Mercury in Scorpio), Ethan Hawke (Sun, Mercury, and Venus in Scorpio), Shere Hite (who published the Hite Report on Sexuality - Sun, Venus, and Mars in Scorpio), Rock Hudson, Demi Moore (Sun, Mercury, and Venus in Scorpio), Pablo Picasso, Prince Charles, Puff Daddy (Sun, Mercury, and Venus in Scorpio), Julia Roberts (Sun and Mercury in Scorpio), Meg Ryan (Sun, Mercury, and Venus in Scorpio), David Schwimmer (Sun, Moon, and Venus in Scorpio), Nicolette Sheridan, Maria Shriver