

ARIES

Aries are fire signs and those born under this element are regarded in astrology as adventurous, active and outgoing. It won't matter where you go or how remote or unusual it is - from the Outback to the Antarctic - you can be sure that an Aries has been there before you (or at the very least you will meet one along the way!) Aries is a uniquely naive sign. Although they are independent, outgoing and assertive they are also surprisingly trusting, often innocently walking into the lion's den at times. No matter what upheaval, challenge or triumph they confront - an Aries has a wonderful ability to bounce back. Their faith in life and the future remains untouched by hardship. Their gift is that they are always children at heart and the world is always a magical place for them. Many famous sports people are born under this sign. Aries is regarded as the most physical sign and because of its Mars rulership; it is also one of the most highly charged masculine energy signs in astrology. No wonder women born under Aries are forceful, dynamic and aggressive, and as a result these Aries women frequently find themselves with dilemmas surrounding their romantic relationships. For them, a man has to be a 'real man' to deal with an Aries woman, otherwise she intimidates him. And conversely for the Aries male, a woman has to be a real woman to deal with him, because he is looking for many balancing component traits (his true feminine side) in his partner. She has to run the gamut in his support system, from the Aries man's best friend, true companion, through to his muse, and yet she must never ever answer him back!

Aries and Gemini. Fire and Air. Did it take you long to find a Gemini? Well, you shouldn't let your Gemini go, (s)he is your destiny.

Gemini people have enough charm to share it with other people and they are so captivating that you could be hypnotized. You both like thrilling life and you both get bored easily. You both have a dexterity one could envy and you are both agile. For both Aries and Gemini communication is so important that you will always have a lot of friends and activities, a tireless and forever exciting life. You do everything together, from having ardent philosophical debates to drawing up detailed layouts, and you couldn't complete each other better. You might be in lack of money, rest or whatever, but you will never be short of ideas.

Gemini will make you known like no other, because nobody is better than Gemini is at spreading the word. Fortunately for you, Gemini people are flexible so (s)he does not need leadership (the thing that gnaws at your heart) and will happily take the road you chose.

Besides that, the native Gemini always has some projects of his/her own so that (s)he is able to express his/her personality in other ways, too. If your Gemini gets upset and you quarrel, there is no reason for you to be scared. Gemini yells a lot but cools down quickly and forgets in a second: (s)he doesn't bear anybody a grudge. Fresh Air, that is what the native Gemini will be for you.

Sexually, Aries generates more warmth and passion, but Gemini adjusts quickly and easily. One thing though: take it slower. You are both eager to reach the destination, but in your case the journey is as pleasant as the destination itself.

Both Aries and Gemini live in the present, so future plans will be put off. Neither of you is good at details, therefore you could hire someone to keep your account books and order your life a little.

You are both so lively that you could give life to the whole universe so, if you found a native Gemini, it is fully worth staying close to him/her.

Aries and Leo. Twin Fires... A sensational meeting between soulmates, full of power, energy and force. If you found a Leo, remember that his/her personality seems to have been created to match yours. You will never miss bold ideas, conversation and adventures.

The Lion has a great heart that will fascinate you, and an inclination towards theatricalism that will always make you laugh (what Aries wouldn't yield to this strong argument?) You are both Fire signs, so you will always discover new things together, you will create or initiate projects. You want the same things, so you will get them much easier together. Leo is a very romantic sign - (s)he symbolizes the celestial man's heart - so your Leo will have many, many adorable surprises for you.

Get ready to go to the most famous restaurants because Leo likes going out, showing him/herself, frequenting refined and elegant places. Leo also likes being dressed-up and manages to look good no matter what (s)he is wearing, so you'd better put on your best clothes and give up jeans and T-shirts, dear Aries.

The male Leo is a courteous man and the female Leo, a femme fatale by nature, but (s)he likes being in charge very, very much and it could be a sore point between you two. But she is so charming that I can see you lay down your arms.

Sexually, Leo is a wild feline, very sexy and simply fascinating. And since Aries is not faithfulness itself, one piece of advice: don't go off the right path because you will pay very dearly. Leo does not forget if someone betrayed him/her and (s)he takes his/her revenge.

Is either of you practical? No way, but you are both so productive that you will probably have enough money so as not to worry about domestic necessities. This is a partnership between two powerful and determined leaders that will bring fulfillments and success to both of you. There will always be a dramatic tension between you two.

Leo is a fixed sign, that is a stubborn one (guess who's also famous in the zodiac for the same quality!). Yes, Leo is even more stubborn than you are, dear Aries, so (s)he will often manage to impose his/her point of view. When you have a fight - because you will probably have some of those, too - the famous roar of the Lion will calm you down, so you'd better avoid fights or think of phonic isolation.

Don't forget that Leo's pride does not accept being hurt; you will find it very hard to make him/her forget something that you hurt his/her ego with, and you will have to insist and to use compliments, praise and anything else you can.

You are made for each other and you are meant to get along wonderfully, so you'd better hold tight to your charmed cat!

Aries and Sagittarius. Two Fires, one passion.

Any Aries's motto is Adventure. It's not a wonder that you have found your Sagittarius! No matter if you climb mountains together, learn something new or start a business, nothing will ever be boring next to a Sagittarius!

The Aries-Sagittarius combination is very good, because you are both Fire signs and you have so many ideas that you could recreate the world from the beginning. You are both curious about anything that surrounds you.

You have finally found someone who's as idealistic as you are and with whom you can have endless discussions... Maybe you two will dedicate to a cause, a business or an important project together; you will be doing a lot of things together anyway. Aries and Sagittarius together have a lot of potential, but don't forget to take a Taurus, a Capricorn or a Virgo in your team - a little common sense can't hurt, and that's exactly what you two don't have.

To your advantage, Sagittarius is the flexible one. That means that (s)he will let you be in charge, be the boss, the leader... But don't push it too hard, because Sagittarius does not keep it to him/herself, (s)he is very direct and tells it to your face. Sagittarius will bring you back to Earth so fast that you won't know what hit you! It could be exactly the reason for which your relationship works: communication is almost perfect, almost simultaneous and full of love, because you understand each other.

You both like sports (Sagittarius likes it a little more), open-air activities, with your friends or just for a walk, so there are plenty to do with a Sagittarius by your side.

You both love spontaneity so much that you might not make it to the bed because of the excitement. The sex will free your energy and you will both be satisfied when you come out of the bedroom/kitchen or wherever imagination takes you.

The only problem could be that Sagittarius is not a sign to aspire to a long-lasting relationship. That's life, you fell in love with the sign of celibacy so don't think for a minute that you will take him/her to the altar so easily. That could ask for time and patience, because Sagittarius needs much time to take a relationship seriously and to decide to give up his/her precious freedom.

You will admire Sagittarius' optimism and (s)he will fall in love with your style of taking what's best in life with both hands. You are meant to be together.

Aries and Aquarius. Fire and Air. An adventure in the shape of a great love.

Indeed, next to an Aquarius, your life will be what you have always wanted: a great adventure. Aquarius has a mysterious and unearthly Air, and, at the same time, a sharp, analytical mind. I bet you fell in love at first sight with such a combination of qualities an Aries can appreciate so well!

Deep down, you are a rebel, and so is Aquarius. You can do everything you want together - a better world, a good business, a happy family. Aquarius's role on Earth is to see the flaws of the society, to make a better world - yes, Aquarius really believes that, and (s)he will always try to help many people.

Neither Aries nor Aquarius are crazy about social status, so you will be willing to take risks together. You are both future-oriented, so you speak the same language - even the same dialect, because you have a special gift of communicating almost intuitively.

Aries wants to be the boss, and Aquarius does not care, (s)he wants to be free to carry through his/her projects. To both of you, absence leads to presence, so you will respect each other's need of freedom and sometimes of loneliness.

Just like you, Aquarius doesn't think a marriage is based on the merging of personalities, but rather on the union between two different entities, so Aquarius will not suffocate your spirit. But Aquarius is much more flexible than Aries, so pay attention: if something seems vitally important to him/her, (s)he won't give in, (s)he will be very firm about it.

Sexually, Aquarius (the sign of inventiveness) and Aries (the pure energy) will make a perfect match. Your Aquarius will be different every day and you like that, because it satisfies Aries' thirst for adventure and novelty.

The beginning is a little difficult with an Aquarius, who is very friendly and charming in the society, but who opens up slowly in personal relationships. But I doubt that this will be an obstacle for a real Aries, that is an impetuous sign.

Fortunately, neither of you is possessive. When you want somebody, let him/her free: if (s)he doesn't come back, it means (s)he was never yours. Sometimes you may find it hard to follow all the Aquarius's changes, as it would be difficult to follow the change of wind: we feel it, but we can't say when it started and passed by, where it is headed and where it comes from. You will often think that (s)he gets lost on the verge of the unpredictable, but, after all, that's what attracted you from the beginning, isn't it?

A fairy-tale relationship: Aries and Aquarius need each other and can support each other like Air and Fire.

Aries and Aries, when Fires get together... Waves of energy burst and enthusiasm invades their world. But very strong energies sometimes collide.

Aries people have deep-rooted opinions and are very stubborn. Your purpose in the zodiac is to represent the force of life, the energy. "I" is the most important word in the vocabulary of an Aries. Therefore, the combination between two Aries people could become one of those spicy things - in plain English, a troubled love.

If each of you succeeds in going beyond his/her stubbornness and desire to be the one who's always right, and if you give up the inevitable fights for power, you could have a beautiful relation, active, imaginative and resourceful.

If you don't compete over trifle things and respect each other's opinions (and each other's desire to be the boss), and if you manage to direct your energy outwards, towards the others, you are in for a very exciting relation. No dream will be too bold, no adventure too courageous, no project too imaginative. You can accomplish so much together! Provided that you establish the mandate period of each of you very clearly.

Aries is also the sign of the enterpriser who sets out taking all the risks, so it wouldn't be surprising if you started a business together. I have to warn you though: Aries is not keen on receiving advice and it could be a sore point. Get used to listening to the other's point of view. Some pieces of advice are worth being taken and for each proverb ("advice is made to be ignored") there is one that contradicts it. Once you have solved this problem, you can head towards the great adventure together.

Neither of you is too practical, that's why you'd better have some Earth planet well placed in your charts; otherwise you are in the danger of venturing too far and forgetting about housework.

Considering the great energy and imagination coming from both sides, from the sexual point of view you will probably end up producing "Nine Weeks and a Half", part 2. Aries needs an active sexual life so there will be no problem.

As you are both impulsive, impetuous and anxious, you'd better slow down from time to time because the fast pace is tiresome. You will probably have often and terrible rows - and you will make up passionately every time.

Aries-Aries is a five star combination so it is worth trying. After all, your partner has the same qualities as you do!

Aries and Libra, Fire and Air, the warrior Mars and the Beautiful Venus... Moreover, you are opposite signs in the zodiac! (Libra is at six sun signs away from Aries.)

In just a few words? You either complete each other or compete against each other. There is no middle way with you two: it is all or nothing. But Fire needs Air, and since air also means wind, which likes playing with the fire flames, there is everything between you two rather than nothing.

Libra, as a sign of equilibrium (that (s)he always looks for), is very skillful when it comes to negotiation and (s)he knows how to bring peace in your life and how to incite you - as an Air sign, Libra communicates very well.

Unlike the impetuous and thoughtless Aries, Libra thinks objectively, progressively, and divides problems in smaller “parts” that are easier to “digest”.

A born diplomat, loving beauty and showing the gentleness characteristic of the love symbolized by his/her tutorial planet (Venus), Libra is good at making long-term plans and contracts. To an Aries, this is an essential quality, because the native of this sign is a very good initiator, but not very efficient in carrying out plans.

A very communicative Air sign, Libra will always encourage you with new ideas and will show you new points of view to interpret things from. Libra likes team work - Libra is, in fact, the sign of marriage - so Libra will always look for a middle way, for a right solution to problems - that's an warning for the Aries people that are bossy and tyrannical.

You are lucky because Libra enjoys a relationship more than loneliness, so Libra will do his/her best to make the relationship work, and will only leave if things become really ugly. Libra will either teach you how to give in or make compromises for you, because (s)he will be fascinated by the fire that burns in each Aries, and will try to stay as close as possible.

Aries generally likes winning at any price. Therefore, you might terrorize or intimidate your partner just to have it your way. This is something that won't do you any good. You have to take it easier with a Libra and be a little more subtle!

Libra knows what to look at very well: the visual aesthetics is very important to him/her - (s)he likes wearing quality clothes and she likes seeing you look as elegant as possible so... use your comb and polish your shoes!. Even though you have been married to a Libra for 20 years, (s)he still wants you to look good, to match your clothes, you know, Venus stuff...

Aries-Libra is a combination with a very good chance so you can be happy if you meet a Libra. The Venus-Mars combination is one of the most exciting in the zodiac because it combines the warrior's positive aggressiveness with the erotic love of the goddess of beauty. It couldn't have been better.

In conclusion, you will like Libra's confidence, his/her bold ideas and active spirit. All you have to do is give in a little (when it comes to “who's the boss”) and you will have him/her. Libra doesn't necessarily want to be the boss, (s)he just doesn't want to be the subordinate!

Aries and Taurus. Fire and Earth. Really difficult...

Have you fallen in love with a Taurus? Do you happen to like stability? Taurus is very different from you: (s)he keeps his/her feet on the ground, (s)he likes safety, risks scare him/her to death, change is an earthquake to him/her. Not to say that Taurus does not have your strong nerves and this could lead to many conflicts!

The main disadvantage for an Aries in getting involved with a Taurus lies in the fact that (s)he is really, really slow in everything (s)he does. Not in the bad meaning of the word, only Taurus is more prudent, more difficult to start, more sensual when making love, or slower in making decisions. I don't have to tell you how much this thing will annoy you, because Aries lives and moves at top speed. I think you are already guessing.

Both Taurus men and women think food is a kind of perfect prelude for the sexual union, so this is an idea if you want to go on. After you turn off the lights, you will discover such a sensual, loving and tender person that you might want to change yourself a little.

It wouldn't hurt if you switched to a lower speed to enjoy everything a Taurus can offer when (s)he makes love. You move at lightning speed but the zodiac's champion at caressing - Taurus is fond of shapes, touching is very important to him/her - might change your views on love.

Of course, the reverse is also possible, meaning that you could help your Taurus become more spontaneous, sometimes (s)he is so damn serious about daily problems!

Taurus is very productive and practical, and this is a good thing in a family where there is an Aries, because the latter is not too practical.

What's the difficult part then? Well, you will soon get tired of Taurus's style who likes staying at home, while you want to go out, to socialize. Taurus is very fond of his/her habits, and comfort is the basic concept in his/her life. Are you, Aries, capable of convincing your Taurus to leave his/her quiet life for one day and join you to a party? If not... you will get bored very soon. And Taurus, in his/her turn, will get tired of your absence all the time.

Aries-Taurus relationship is a soliciting one, indeed: each of you will have to give his/her best and give up many things to stay together.

Aries and Virgo, Fire and Earth. Isn't it true that everybody told you to give up? That you shouldn't be together? As if you didn't know! If your relationship with a Virgo works, that means you have made some efforts to change and more compromises than Aries normally likes making.

Let's take them in turns.

Virgo is meticulous, hardworking (like you), but you have very different ways of expressing yourselves and perceive the world. Virgo gets up in the morning and knows exactly what (s)he will be doing at 9:15 am or 3:30 pm, and if (s)he doesn't finish his/her work, (s)he is just like a toy with a key, (s)he keeps spinning until (s)he gets where (s)he wants to. Virgo doesn't need a boss to push him/her from behind: his/her ambition is enough.

There is no such thing like a Virgo not helping his/her friends or not keeping his/her word. One could say that this is the purpose of Virgo's life. You, dear Aries, have the overall view, more courage and you are better at relations and connections. Virgo takes great pleasure in details and organization. Next to a Virgo, if you succeed in changing that much so that your relationship works, you will become stronger and you will have more chances for your dreams to come true (Fire initiates projects, but Earth maintains them).

A Virgo can be a good partner for an Aries: not only does Virgo speak a lot (after all, (s)he is governed by Mercury, the quick silver in alchemy and the God of communication on Mount Olympus) and believes that one should wear his/her heart on his/her sleeve, but Virgo also has a special gift to explain gently and patiently what (s)he wants and what you should do different. Considering that a relationship is 90% communication, stars are on our side.

However, Virgo needs tenderness (which requires patience, an important concept that each Aries should analyze, if not put into practice), because (s)he has the tendency to get too involved in her work and (s)he can hardly detach him/herself. You should take it slowly because your impulsiveness might scare away your Virgin.

One more thing: Aries is not on the list of the most faithful and devoted characters in history. So, if you intend to go off the right path, don't say nobody warned you: Virgo is very moralistic and can't stand betrayal. In brief, don't try to cheat on a Virgo, it won't work: (s)he will figure it out immediately by some insignificant, X Files-like detail.

If you want the Aries-Virgo relation to work, your effort has to be at least as great as your impulsiveness is.

Aries and Scorpio. Fire and Water. You are both under the sign of Mars, the god of war, but you have different ways of expressing yourselves.

Fortunately for the Aries in love with a Scorpio, the latter has at least some common qualities with the first one: Scorpio is loud, passionate and ardent. This is really a relationship full of action!

It is not a typical combination on the list of the happy couples, because you both want to be winners. So it will only last if both of you are willing to make some efforts.

Sexually, both Aries and Scorpio have an insatiable appetite, enough energy and passion to lit the Sun, although Scorpio's feelings are stronger and deeper than Aries'. Sometimes you may not reach the depth where Scorpio lives his/her inner life, and this might hurt him/her.

Scorpio needs to be understood. It is worth trying, all you need is a little patience (you will need to exercise this muscle, it is a little atrophied at Aries) and goodwill, which you already have. In return, you will have a partner with whom you will be able to be yourself.

Scorpio is very sensual, so you could learn something from this sun sign that is a master of making love. But remember that Scorpio demands total attention, faithfulness and devotion. You will receive the same thing, because (s)he has these qualities in his/her turn. That means you have to close that eye that chases other men or women!

You never know for sure if you want to belong to someone or not and you will often get bored in a relationship like this one: no flirt, no frivolity, no adventure at all - precisely the salt in the food, isn't it? Scorpio decides much sooner whether (s)he wants you two to be together or not, and, attention, once you've had a physical contact, (s)he considers this like an unwritten contract that gives him/her full right over you.

Still, there is so much energy and action in an Aries-Scorpio relationship that it is worth the effort!

Aries and Pisces. Fire and Water. After you blow off steam for a while, dear Aries, you will run away exhausted, because Water has a special way of overflowing continually...

The native Pisces likes having a strong partner: that's good, you have it. Pisces doesn't want to be in control: another good point for you. Pisces doesn't like making decisions: you'd think (s)he is the right one for you. BUT...

The native Pisces is dedicated to the others, his/her personality is almost volatile, (s)he is altruistic and capable of enormous sacrifices. This is nice and you will surely be fascinated by Pisces' inner world, but (s)he is absent-minded too often, and the thing with self-sacrificing will get on your nerves when you see how (s)he lets the others take advantage of him/her.

And if you try to say anything, Pisces will either shrug his/her shoulders (what does (s)he have to do with these earthly things?) or start explaining that it doesn't matter because (s)he is only interested in the good (s)he has done, not in what (s)he received in return.

This is the point when Aries says STOP. Pisces is concerned with saving the world but Aries is the sign of "I, I, I the first"... They say that the Fish has an old soul and (s)he understands the whole world's pain, that (s)he has an inner light, but all these things that interest him/her seem rather strange, if not unhealthy, to you.

If you have your eyes on a Pisces, remember to be yourself: the native Pisces loves Aries' live spirit, aggressiveness and optimism. And if you want an honest answer, you can be sure you'll have it, because Pisces understands human nature very well. Unfortunately, Pisces often forgets to live or to come down to Earth like the rest of us and (s)he will annoy you quite soon, burning away your energy.

If you are able to show some patience from time to time, the native Pisces will be satisfied. But in time, you will get tired of this eternal victim of the universe, who likes staying at home on Saturday evenings instead of going to a party. And Pisces will feel neglected because deep down (s)he is very possessive, a quality that terrorizes you a little.

Aries is not a very subtle zodiac sign, so it will take you some time to notice that the sensitive Pisces has finally come to his/her limit. It will often be too late, when Pisces has already left, never to come back again. Anyway, (s)he would have ended up by making your life more and more difficult: Fire cannot go deep into Water without being put out.

The Aries-Pisces relation promises a lot and often starts impetuously, but neither of you will be satisfied after a while, when the novelty has disappeared.

Aries and Cancer. Fire and Water. The Crab is so different from you that the relationship depends entirely on you, on your attitude and on how much you can take.

Cancer is very attached to family and (s)he wants to have a home very much. You feel the need to conquer the world, to take risks, to start new projects, to have a larger perspective. Cancer longs for stability and is terrorized by your adventurous spirit: you scare him/her completely.

When you try to explain to him/her that you want to do something great for the human kind, money or friends, (s)he will just ask you why you can't have a regular job like all the others, be someone's subordinate. Because an Aries, even when (s)he is employed in a company, will still cook up secret plans to become independent: you are the world's enterprisers. You will probably try anything to reach this goal, as if you escaped from a prison. And Cancer will ask you why you don't spend more time at home! That's nerve, isn't it? Cancer doesn't have your unlimited ambition so (s)he will accept the Aries's explanations, but still, (s)he will never understand how work can be more important than family.

If you succeed in getting over it and over the Cancer's caprices (it's a very changing and moody sun sign, both as far as men and women are concerned), the Crab will offer you a dream-like family life, because here (s)he feels fulfilled.

It will not take long until you get the impression that Cancer is always complaining and fawning and that his/her mood changes all the time; on the other hand, Cancer will think you are insensitive and heartless if you tell him/her to his/her face. That happens because Aries does not have the necessary subtlety to notice the little (often tiny...) details that can hurt a Cancer.

To make this relationship last, you will both have to give in a lot and to work on communication, discuss as much as possible, try to understand each other. Of course, there are patient Aries people, too, who like staying at home on Saturday evenings. But they are probably on Mars or on the Moon. That means they either don't exist or will be registered as new life forms when they are discovered. And there are Cancerians that are not emotional, also on the Moon. So it doesn't work in the cruel reality...

If you feel you can invest all your energy (and even more) in the house, not in your career, if you think you can stand moods and lamentation - it will surely work. You might even like it because Cancer, when (s)he feels (s)he is loved, offers everything in return: and "everything" means much, much love and devotion. If only...

Aries and Capricorn. Fire and Earth. It will take many compromises and much patience for you to stay together. Your opinions and lifestyles have absolutely nothing in common.

You, dear Aries, cannot resist in a structured environment for long, be it a relationship or a job. As a genuine Fire sign, you need to explore territories and you always venture where the ordinary man does not even dare to look, because the essence of your sign is the primal force of life.

On the other hand, Capricorn is a practical, cautious sign that likes safety and well-organized structures. Capricorn sets high value on reputation and social status, (s)he often takes big responsibilities and usually manages to make a name for him/herself. While you live in the sparkling world of ideas, the Capricorn next to you is prudent, very careful about each step (s)he takes, and probably has a good job and his/her feet set firmly on the ground.

Aries, an eternal optimistic, always looks for the light at the end of the tunnel while Capricorn reasons upon the possible dangers, makes lists with them and thinks that the tunnel leads to a dead end. Still, to the extent to which both of you can make compromises and offer your best - Aries' spirit of adventure and Capricorn's organizational talent - you can accomplish many things together.

Give the Capricorn some time, because not only is Capricorn a slower zodiac sign (Earth is harder to move, is rather immobile by its nature), but (s)he is also very attached to his/her work and will often need some time to detach from them and get on the same wavelength with you.

Once you have succeeded in detaching your beloved Capricorn, you will discover that your efforts really pay off: like any other Earth sign, Capricorn is sensual and gentle. Capricorn people are more reserved so be patient - the magic word again! - because (s)he has difficulties in opening up to the others.

Now that we know the sacrifices you have to make to keep a Capricorn next to you, let's move on to your burning problem, dear Aries: leadership. If the relation were lead by Capricorn, life would be peaceful and calm. If you were the leader, life would mean adventure and action, but it would be a little disorganized (at this point you could take advantage of the Capricorn's tidy spirit!).

If you played by Capricorn's rules, you would eventually get bored with so much immobility. If you set the rules, you would exhaust and especially terrorize your Capricorn who gets scared at the sight of all that energy!

Staying together? With compromises, understanding and yes, patience. Much patience. The middle way could also be very exciting. Equilibrium is not to be found in stillness only: with goodwill, you will discover that action can be balanced, too.
